

Hot leadership and chilled relationships to chilled leadership and hot relationships: lessons for IS leaders

By the end of our presentation, we hope you will....

reflect on the nature of your relationships take an action inquiry approach to challenges feel energised

read about the future leaders programme <http://www.libe.ac.uk/support/the/fof/12.pdf>

Context

What is the role of a University?

Economic constraints

Market pressures

Technological advances

Drivers

Economic Technology
Community - public value

2011

Drivers

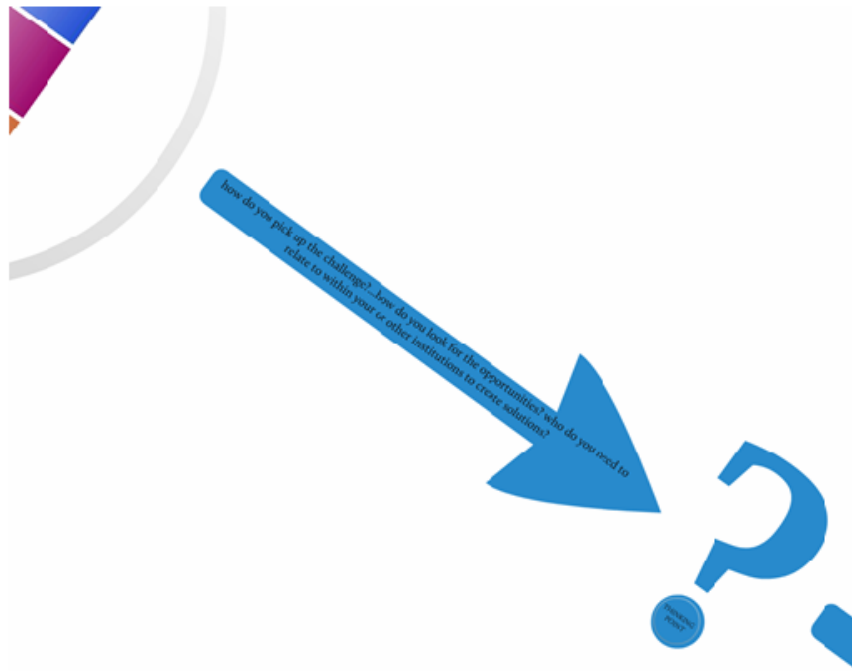

ic public value

Push to sector collaboration

Leadership challenges

Push to sector collaboration

THINKING POINT

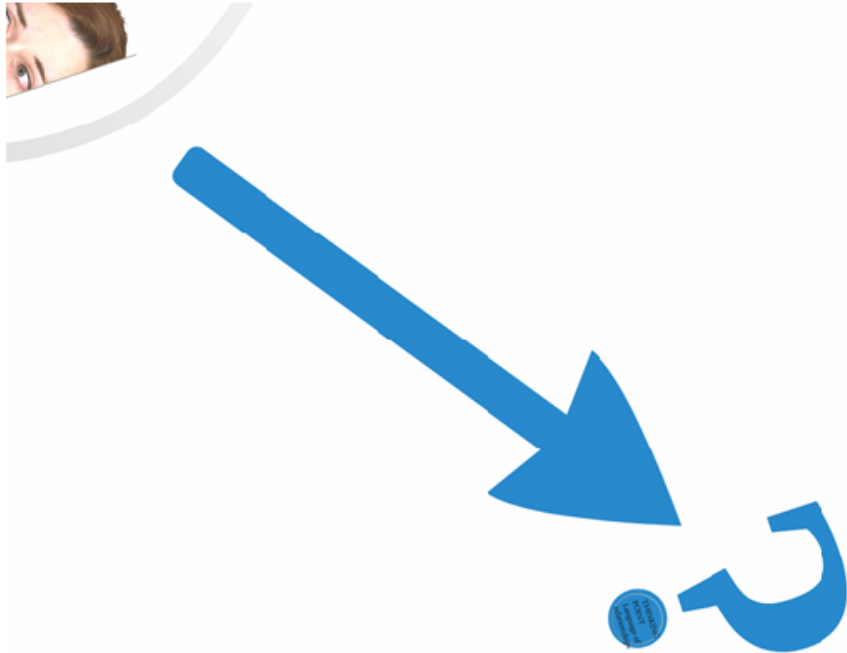

Relationships

How do we talk about relationships?

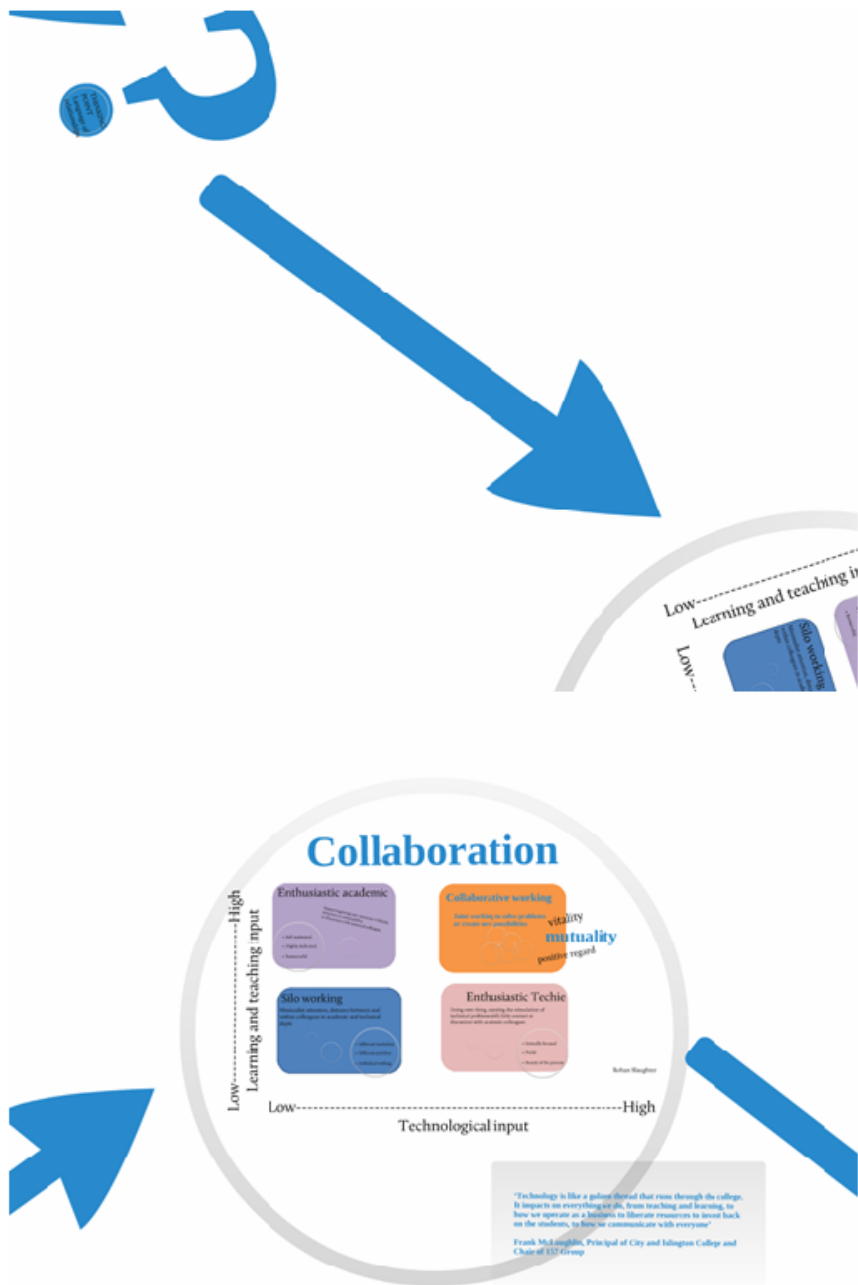

outcome...
and emotional wash
..and reductionist outcomes...

THINKING POINT Language of relationships

Enthusiastic Techie

Doing own thing, enjoying the stimulation of technical problems with little contact or discussion with academic colleagues

- Inwardly focused
- Purist
- Beauty of the process

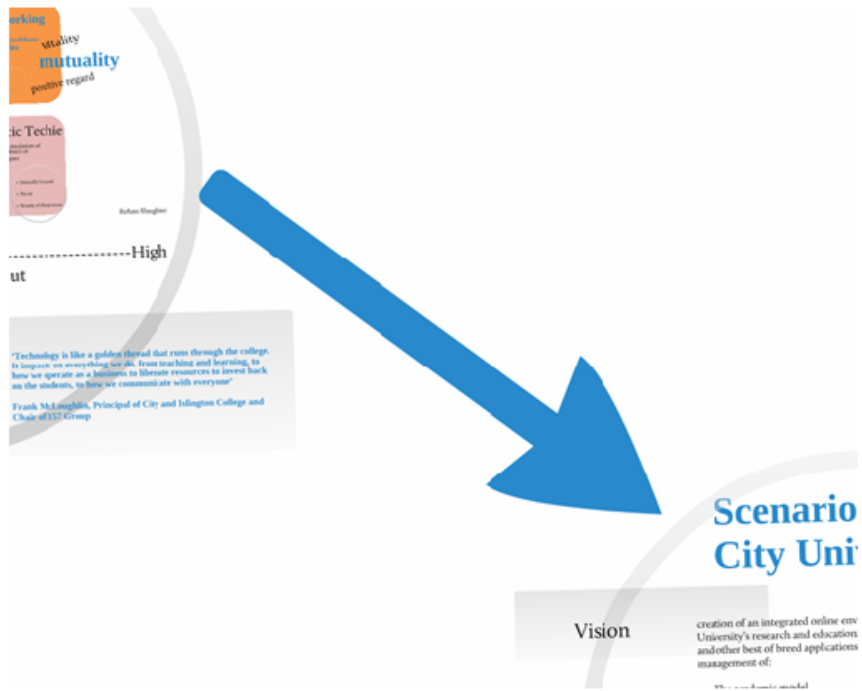

Collaborative working

Joint working to solve problems or create new possibilities

vita mu positiv

ms vitality mutuality positive regard

Scenario City University London

Vision

creation of an integrated online environment to support the University's research and educational activities using the portal and other best of breed applications. This environment enables management of:

- The academic model
- Learning and research assets
- Assessment and feedback
- Personal and professional development activity
- Collaboration and communication

Governance

Values

Partnership

City University Lo

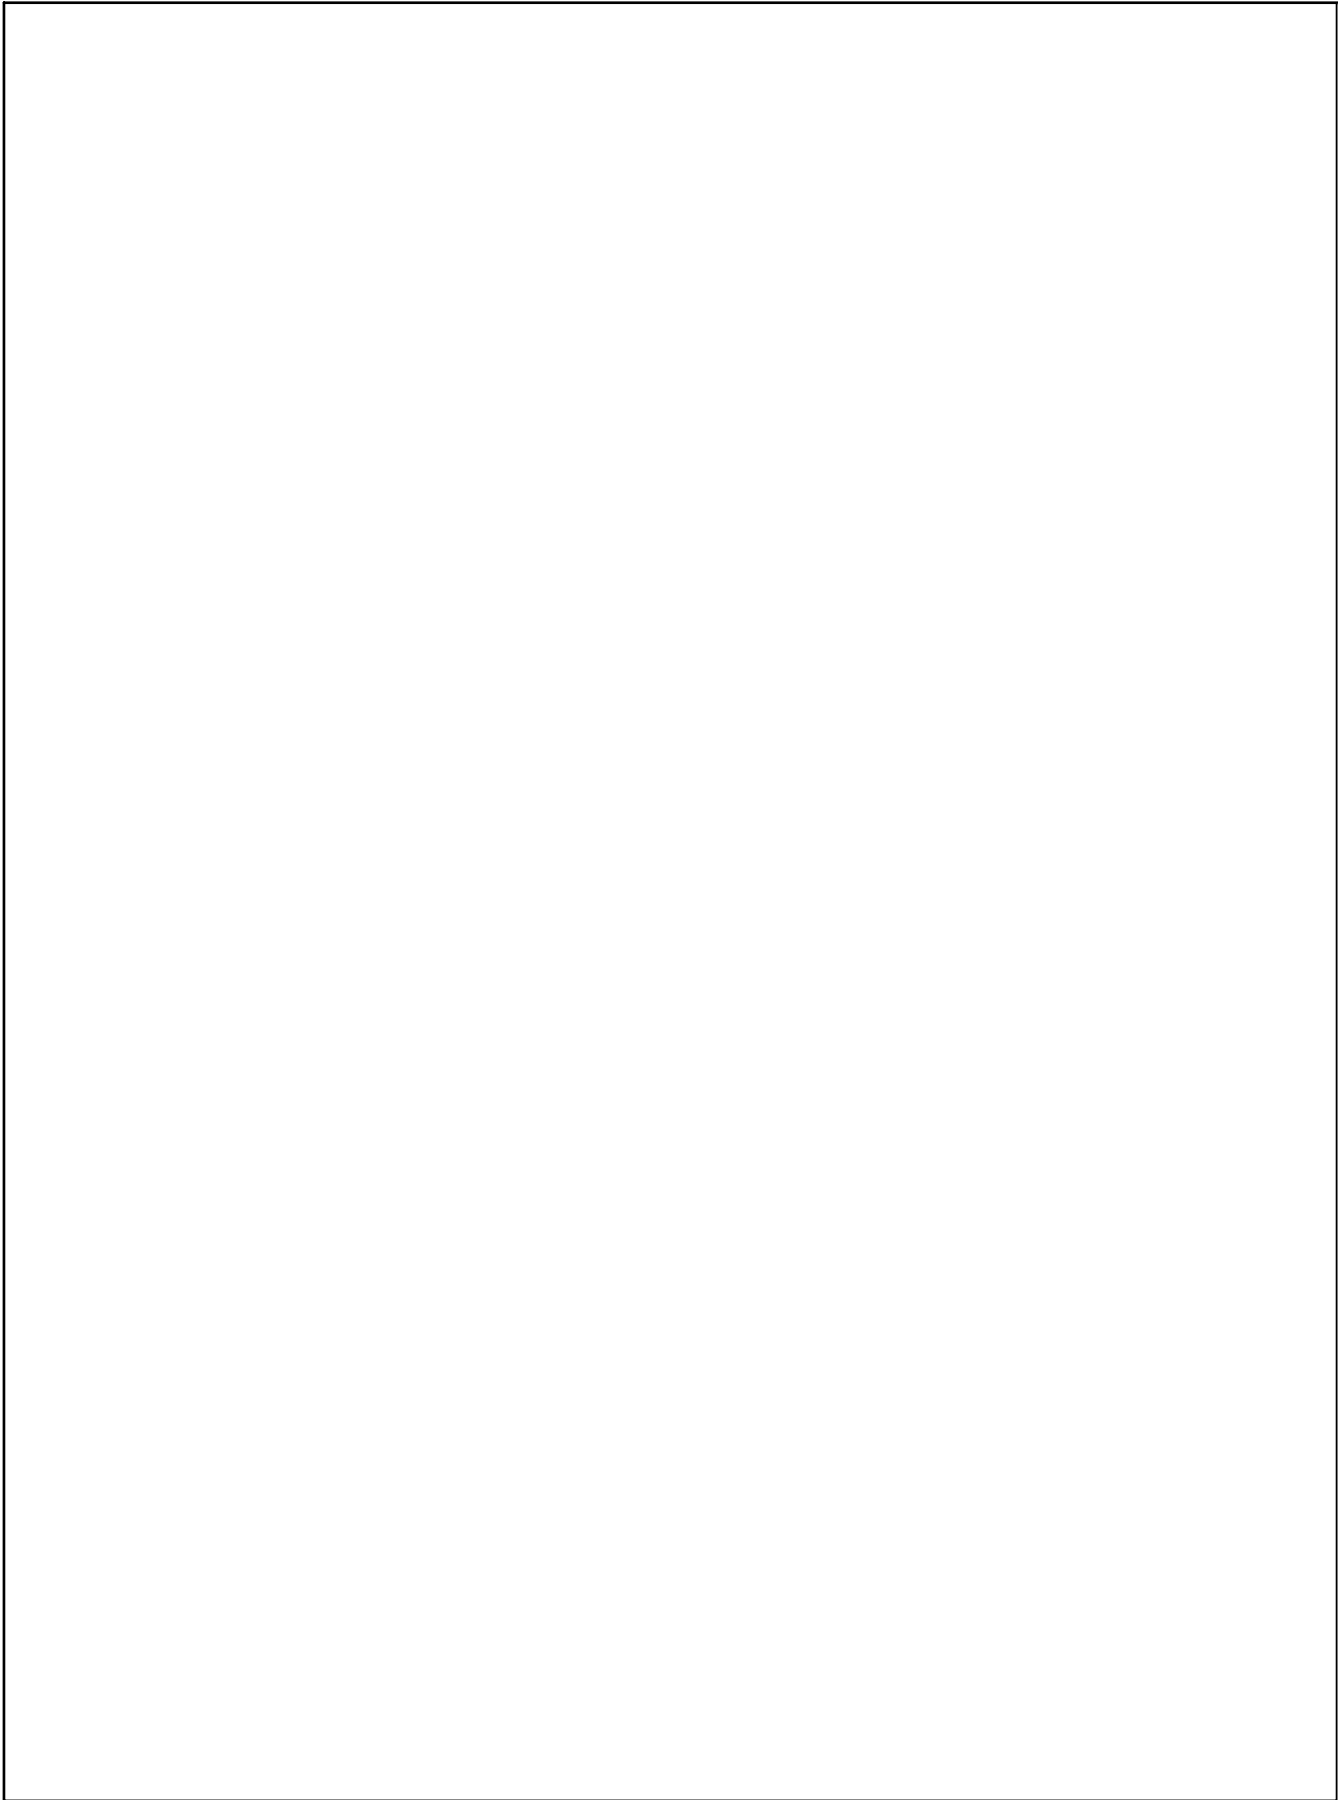

creation of an integrated online environment to support the University's research and educational activities using the portal and other best of breed applications. This environment enables management of:

- The academic model
- Learning and research assets
- Assessment and feedback
- Personal and professional development activity
- Collaboration and communication

rnance

Feb 26-11:42